

Editorial

The second issue of the Central and Eastern Journal of Management and Economics contains a selection of articles of scientists from the Wrocław School of Banking in Poland. The articles are revised and second-time double-peer reviewed and reedited and have been published on an earlier date in the Scientific Papers (Zeszyty Naukowe) of the Wrocław School of Banking, while one article was published in the Central European Review of Economic Issues.

The aim of the journal, published online, is to create general access, and to provide authors with the opportunity to reach a wider public. In this case the reader has the opportunity to become acquainted with research of scientists from one of the largest institutions of higher education in Lower Silesia in Poland.

The papers are in accordance with the focus of the journal on empirical and innovative theoretical studies in the field of management, economics and related sciences. For next issues, we invite authors dealing with issues in other geographical areas.

Joost Platje